

Life is a cabriolet, old son

It has taken 34 years for the factory to produce a convertible Mini. Has

it been worth the wait? Mark Hughes searches out a

CHECKER MARCOS MINI

sunny road in wet

Britain to find out.

Still smiling he sets off to drive a '60s Mini built in the '90s, and the original open-top

Mini which is just about to notch up its 30th anniversary

